Erik Solomon Tjernberg

Erik Solomon Tjernberg¹ (now Ternberg²) was born on 23 November 1858³, in Junsele Fjällsjö, Västernorrland, Sweden⁴ to Solomon Erson (also known as Salomon Ericsson⁵) and Anna Stina(neé Pehrsondotter)⁶. Tjernberg came to the United States on 1 March 1884⁷ to better his education to become a pastor. Before coming to the United States, Erik went to Fjellstedt School in Sweden for three years⁸. Tjernberg was admitted into Augustana College on 24 August 1883⁹. On his registration card, he stated that he needed beneficiary aid which most likely meant he came from a poor family, or he was living by himself and needed help. While Erik was at Augustana College, he took many courses ranging from math, Latin, history, and geography¹⁰. Even though Erik took these courses throughout his time he was truly focused on the ministries. Every day, Erik would have to wake up around six in the morning to make sure that his room was clean for room checks¹¹. Erik would have to make his bed and make sure the room was all tidied up before he could start the rest of his day¹². From here, Erik would walk down a couple of stairs or a hallway to get to his classroom¹³. At this time, all of the classes and dorm rooms were in the same building as one another¹⁴. Even the professors stayed just a few floors above the students which is something that one would not see today¹⁵. Sometime in the afternoon, Erik would have probably gone to lunch in the dining hall which also located in the same building¹⁶. From here, Erik would have time to do school work and possibly socialize, but there was a light out policy at 10:00 pm which forced him to wind down for the night¹⁷. While in Augustana, Tjernberg was a part of the Phrenokosmian Society¹⁸. He graduated from Augustana in 1886¹⁹.

After graduation, Tjernberg went into the ministry to become a pastor. Erik was ordained a pastor in 1888 at Galesburg, Illinois²⁰. Once ordained into the ministries, he became a pastor in Malmo, Nebraska²¹. Although he started his career in Nebraska, Tjernberg would move all over the country for different job opportunities. Tjernberg worked in Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Iowa, Minnesota, New Jersey, and even Ontario and Sweden²². Erickson , Mrs. Morris Anderson, Miss Signey Ternberg, and the son's name was Gotthard²⁴.

After forty five years of being a pastor, Erik may have retired in 1930, three years before his death. Erik Tjernberg passed away on 24 November 1933 from a heart attack²⁵. Tjernberg passed away and was buried near Ramsey County, Minnesota in He was aged 75 years, one month and one day old²⁶. He left behind a wife and five children.

Questions for Further Research

Given more time, we would have liked to find more information on his mother as the only thing we could find was his mother's year of birth and where she was born. When looking for his ancestors, all we could find was information on his father but nothing on his mother. If we could have returned to the Swenson Swedish Immigration Center, we might have been able to look for extra information about his mother.

Another question for further research we have is how he came to the United States in 1884, but was enrolled in Augustana in 1883. We think that this was either an error on the person who kept record or, he enrolled in Augustana, then went back to Sweden before fully emigrating in 1884 to America.

Finally, the last thing that we wish we could do if we had more time was to find more information about what Erik did during his time at Augustana College. We know that Erik participated in Phrenokosmian Society , but nothing much beyond that. Going to Special Collections a second time will help us find out about his involvement in his society.

A record for Erik Solomon Tjernberg is in the Family tree on FamilySearch. The record locator is LYRD-PW3.
